

Authors' information

Prof. Dr. Karin Amos is professor of educational science with a focus on international comparative education and (inter-) cultural education at the Institute of Education. She is vice president for academic affairs at the University of Tübingen (karin.amos@uni-tuebingen.de).

Dr. Douglas Andrews is a research associate and postdoc at the Wits School of Education, Faculty of Humanities, University of the Witwatersrand. He is a school principal and a member of the UNESCO Chair in Teacher Education for Diversity and Development and (douglas.andrews@wits.ac.za)

Jonas Bischof was an assistant at the chair of education with a focus on inclusion, heterogeneity and diversity. He completed a master's degree in educational science from the University of Tübingen (jonas.bischof@uni-tuebingen.de).

Prof. Dr. Thorsten Bohl is professor of educational science with a focus on school pedagogy at the Institute of Education and Director of the Tübingen School of Education at the University of Tübingen (leitung@tuese.uni-tuebingen.de).

Matthias Bornemann is a coordinator of the Competence Center for Sustainable Development and of the platform Global Encounters at the University of Tübingen (matthias.bornemann@uni-tuebingen.de).

Prof. Dr. John Bradley is honorary professor with a focus on chemistry education in the division of science education at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (john.bradley@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Taiga Brahm is professor of economic education at the faculty of economics and social sciences at the University of Tübingen (taiga.brahm@uni-tuebingen.de).

Jun.-Prof. Dr. Jan-Philipp Burde is professor of physics education and vice-dean of academic affairs for teaching degree courses of physics and astronomy at the University of Tübingen (jan-philipp.burde@uni-tuebingen.de).

Deborah Diekmann is a researcher and coordinator in the area of internationalization at the Tübingen School of Education, University of Tübingen (deborah.diekmann@uni-tuebingen.de).

Dr. Reuben Dlamini is a senior lecturer in educational information and engineering technology at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (Reuben.Dlamini@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Marcus Emmerich is professor of education with a focus on inclusion, heterogeneity and diversity at the Tübingen School of Education and director of the Institute of Education at the University of Tübingen (marcus.emmerich@uni-tuebingen.de).

Tamara Falcone is a student of philosophy and Middle Eastern studies and student assistant in the area of internationalization at the Tübingen School of Education, University of Tübingen (tamara.falcone@student.uni-tuebingen.de).

Dr. Felician Führer is an educational researcher and project coordinator with a focus on the teaching profession at the Tübingen School of Education, University of Tübingen (felician.fuehrer@tuese.uni-tuebingen.de).

Dr. Diana Grundmann is a researcher with a focus on education for sustainable development and coordinator of the Competence Center for Sustainable Development at the University of Tübingen (diana.grundmann@uni-tuebingen.de).

Elisabeth Hofmann is a researcher and coordinator in the area of internationalization at the Tübingen School of Education, University of Tübingen (elisabeth.hofmann@uni-tuebingen.de).

<http://dx.doi.org/10.15496/publikation-76377>

Dr. Portia Kawai is lecturer of life sciences (biology) education with a focus on curriculum instructional design and development at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (portia.kawai@wits.ac.za).

Dr. Caleb Mandikonza is lecturer of life sciences (biology) education at the Marang Centre for Mathematics and Science Education at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (caleb.mandikonza@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Felix Maringe is professor of higher education, editor in chief of the Journal of Education, former Head of the Wits School of Education and currently deputy vice chancellor at University of Kigali (felix.maringe@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Elizabeth Mavhunga is professor of science education (chemistry) at the Wits School of Education and the chair of the Research Capacity Building Committee of SAARMSTE (elizabeth.mavhunga@wits.ac.za).

Peter Moodie is a visiting lecturer in science education and teacher education at the Setlhare Science Curriculum Trust, RADMASTE Centre, Wits School of Education at the University of the Witwatersrand (peter.moodie@wits.ac.za).

Dr. Emmanuel Mushayikwa is a senior lecturer in physics education with a focus on the self-directed professional development of STEM teachers and the integration of science and Indigenous Knowledge Systems (IKS) in the science classroom at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (emmanuel.mushayikwa@wits.ac.za).

Ngonidzashe Mushaikwa is a research assistant at the University of the Witwatersrand (ngonic68@hotmail.com)

Prof. Dr. Eunice Nyamupangedengu is associate professor in science education and director of Marang Centre for Mathematics and Science Education at the University of the Witwatersrand (eunice.nyamupangedengu@wits.ac.za).

Dr. Emmanuel Ojo is a senior lecturer of social and economic sciences with a research focus on higher education, sustainability and interdisciplinary studies at the Wits School of Education, University of the Witwatersrand (emmanuel.ojo@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Ruksana Osman is professor of education in the field of teacher education and higher education at the Wits School of Education and Senior Deputy Vice-Chancellor of Academic at the University of the Witwatersrand. She holds the UNESCO Chair in Teacher Education for Diversity and Development and is an elected member of the Academy of Science of South Africa (ruksana.osman@wits.ac.za).

Prof. Dr. Thomas Potthast holds the chair of ethics, philosophy, and history of the life sciences and is director of the International Center for Ethics in the Sciences and Humanities, and of the Competence Centre for Sustainable Development at the University of Tübingen (potthast@uni-tuebingen.de).

Prof. Dr. Christoph Randler is professor for didactics in biology at the Faculty of Science at the University of Tübingen (christoph.randler@uni-tuebingen.de).